GREY CREEK STORE CELEBRATING 100 YEARS

Submitted by Tom Lymbery

2013 marks the 100th Anniversary of Gray Creek Store – established in 1913 by Arthur Lymbery as he lived closest to the sand beach where the sternwheelers dropped off mail and supplies. This store remains in the Lymbery family – its most unusual for a rural store to survive and grow under one families' operation. However by legendary merchandising Gray Creek has been able to serve a wide area - for instance supplying chainsaws for boundary slashing between BC and Alaska (long before on-line sales). 2013 sees expansion into more building supplies and lumber -- needed as more people find our fabulous lake. Go to www.greycreekstore.com

Traditionally, General Stores carried an amazing variety of merchandise, but you will find that you can easily peruse for two hours in the two stories of this timber frame building – continuing to find unusual items, and tools and equipment that you may only have read about. The book department specializes in books on BC and Yukon history, stocking many that you can't find elsewhere. "Tom's Gray Creek, a Kootenay Lake Memoir" by Tom Lymbery is being printed in 2013.

Between 1931 and 1947 Gray Creek was the terminus of the Kootenay Lake ferry, when this was the only highway across BC. The largest ever sternwheeler SS Nasookin was the only sternwheeler in the world to carry a daily Greyhound bus, carefully balanced across the bow. In 2011, Malcolm Metcalf, grandson of Captain Malcolm MacKinnon, donated the 8½ foot diameter steering wheel of the ship to the Gray Creek Historical Society, expressing a wish that it be visible to the public. Take time to look at this intricate and beautiful wheel suspended from the store ceiling.

Gray Creek is the junction of the Trans Canada Trail and a seasonal gravel road over the Purcell Mountains to Kimberley. This appears to be a quick shortcut but is actually a slower scenic route over the 7000 foot Gray Creek Pass. Please take the time to walk the short distance in to Oliver Lake from the Oliver Lake Recreation site, just west of the summit. Store staff can give the current update on the road's condition.

NHL Playoffs

After a shortened lock-out season, the NHL is throwing out the red carpet and presenting to the public their 2 month long tournament known as The Stanley Cup playoffs. This is the time of year that die-hard hockey aficionados put all relationships on hold (i.e. marriages, friendships, etc.) and plunk their derriere on the sofa or easy chair and watch at least one hockey game every night.

Now some of us have an excuse for such an endeavour (sports reporting) but on the whole, when I adventure into the public domain and mingle, I do not get that rah rah feeling this year. I know that all of you NHL fans have a favorite team that you are rooting for and hopefully that team has made the elite sixteen this time around and is vying for Lord Stanley's mug. For you Alberta rooters (Flames and Oilers) I wish upon you my condolences and may you rise above the rest in the proverbial next year. (or not) At press time, we have 3 Canadian teams solidly entrenched in the playoff picture and 1 on the cusp (Winnipeg Jets). The forever protagonists Montreal Canadiens and the Toronto Maple Leafs have made the playoffs in the eastern conference and look destined to face each other in the first round of the playoffs. The NHL could not have conjured up a better match up in the opening round as it will draw the entire eastern part of the country into a pick-em fury debate. If you have not experienced such a rivalry, (Calgary & Edmonton) multiply that times 5 and you have the Leafs-Canadiens history. Toronto has not been in the playoffs since 2004 but I'm sure that their rabid (obnoxious), over-exuberant (narc ass is tical) fans have not forgotten to let the rest of the country, as well as everyone else who will listen, how good they are (not the team but the people themselves) and that Toronto is the centre of Canada (oops I meant universe) and we should bow and curtsy to these men & women who are the true epitome of Canadian culturism and the country would be a better place if the western border ended at Manitoba. (just ask them).

For the past 9 years (Blue Jays and Leafs being futile and embarrassing teams) the Canadian sports scene has been relatively quiet and free from too many braggarts. Of course there are some that put some Vancouver Canucks fans into the braggart category, but I seriously doubt this theory and put these people in the Albertan provincial rallying hockey cry-Wait til next year-group. All of you loyal readers that I have met and have spoken to have given me every indication that their support is firmly embedded with Canada's only true hope for hockey's holy grail. For you loyal Alberta readers, I can only wish that the Calgary Flames turn to a youth movement (i.e. Edmonton Oilers), have good luck in the draft, and give their fans a hope for a bright future. For you Oiler fans (like the Telus commercial says) the future is bright as long as the future is now and the teams starts winning and makes the playoffs next year. As recently as 1 month ago, the Oilers were in a playoff position but a 5 game losing streak and nonchalant play put the squad out of any playoff contention. Youths' confidence is a fragile development and with too many young guns running the show, the poor results were an inevitable conclusion. The recent firing of the GM will do little to enhance their improvement. The former GM assembled a cast of reputable juniors who were a couple of wins away from making this years' playoffs. The coaching staff would be the ones responsible for overseeing the play of the team and to keep them playing hard and not let them lose focus. Youths' minds have a tendency to wander, especially when their play starts to deteriorate and this is the time for a coach and his staff to press the correct buttons and right the ship. The team has talent but maybe the youth movement needs an overhaul and release a young buck or two to bring in established veterans to put this dynamic train back on track and allow the remaining younguns to gain some confidence (relying on those have this experience) and proceed to lead the team in future years. The team has hired a recycled former coach, Craig McTavish, (once canned from the same organization) to oversee and manage the team for at least 1 year and expect this man with no GM experience to guide an organization which is on the cusp of greatness-Good Luck. Sometimes presidents of organizations (Kevin Lowe-in this case) put their careers on the line with their hirings and firings-this could be one of those instances. Good luck to all the Canadian teams in the post-season and may the most western Canuck team win.

Golf

Golf season is upon us and what better way than to spend a gorgeous spring or summer afternoon than to hit your white balls till they soar through the air and land close to a beautifully shaved green and near a hole. All of the courses are now offering you this opportunity (except for Trickle Creek-not open yet) and are beckoning golfers of all ages and caliber to try out their establishments. Many a fortune has been won or lost on a golf course and more than 1 or 2 friendships have been made or broken on a course. The serenity and tranquility of wind-blown tamaracks, fir, pines and palm trees leave the soul craving for some yahoo to yell FORE and land a ball on your noggin. But overall the game of golf has plenty to offer the everyday, casual duffer and one can take away as much as one puts into the grand old game. Of course the game can also drive one to drink, which you can partake in while you curse and cuss your way around a course-killing two birds with one stone so to speak. A golf course is one place where the most peace-minded of folk can suddenly turn into vampiring mad creatures with the miss of a $2.00 putt.

Hopefully I have not turned anyone away from the game but rather let them know the pros and cons of the hazards on a course. Hope you all enjoy your summer of golfing.

Wasa Slim Pickens Slo-Pitch Update

Well you know that summer has arrived when you hear the knees creak, backs tweak, and bones just normally start to rattle and the Wasa slo-pitch team takes to the field to defend their 8th place finish in the league last year. The team looks strong again this year (haven't seen them yet) with wily veterans sprinkled among eager younguns (under 50). On disheartening notes:

1. sly pitcher BK suffered a bike accident in the offseason (staying in shape for the upcoming year) and suffered a broken neck. Bill will be surely missed and hopefully can find time to come to games and cheer on his compatriots. 2. Last years coach GO's back injury has not taken to treatment as we had hoped and will miss the year as well. Team owner, workout coach and mental guru MB gave each player a regimented workout package for the offseason designed for their own specific personal preferences and hopefully they were followed to a tee and will prevent future injuries. Newcomers are welcome and tolerated and are normally treated with the respect according to their playing ability. LOL! Seriously the team is always on the lookout for new players and all are welcome regardless of playing ability. Contact Murray at: mblackburn@shaw.ca or Mario at mcarelli@telus.net.

CHASE SADDLE AND LEATHER

the Armchair Traveller

SUBMITTED BY BEV FALKINER

Another year of the "Armchair" has come to an end and our stint at organizing it has also come to an end.

Our first thank-you goes to Karen Proudfoot for an excellent show on the David Thompson Brigade. I am sure that anyone in the Valley would enjoy it.

First and foremost we want to recognize the presenters. These people have spent huge amounts of time creating such professional shows for our enjoyment. We appreciate their dedication. Our husbands have also earned a huge thanks for always being there to help. Annelise McRae and Dirk De Geus have made beautiful posters for us for a number of seasons. Judy McPhee has faithfully baked for nearly every presentation. The TaTa Creek Store, the Wasa Building Supplies, the Wasa Pub and the Wasa Diner have all displayed posters for us. Most importantly you, the audience, have supported us very well. Brenda Rauch, Marg Burrin and I say "Thank-you" to you all.

Next year Ida Cale, Karen Markus, and Suzanne Ashmore will take over the reins. They are three capable women who I am sure will put together an interesting season. We hope to see you in the audience!

A Tidbit from Wasa TOPS

Perception

What is your perception of TOPS? Perception is the ability to understand the true nature of something. Yes, the acronym stands for Take Off Pounds Sensibly but it is not just about losing weight. It is also about making smarter choices to start looking and feeling great. Some of us may never reach that "magic number" ... "our goal weight" but TOPS is keeping us accountable, not only with the scale, but with encouragement and support and through the constant sharing of new information. We never know when something will 'twig' and be the 'secret' to our living a healthier more vibrant lifestyle and with that, losing weight along the way.

On Wednesday, June 5th, we are hosting an Enthusiasm Night. It will be a night of fun, information and inspiration put on by our Area Captain. Everyone is welcome to attend. Come out and let us give you a better perception of what TOPS is all about.

RDEK NEWS

RDEK NEWS

By Area E Director Jane Walter

This month we celebrated the grand opening of our new board room. We now have a board room that is big enough to hold the residents that want to attend the meetings. Often when we had a large delegation there was only room for the speakers.

David Wilks, MP presented the RDEK Board with a new Canadian Flag and he spoke about the Federal Financial Budget. Bill Bennett also attended and he presented the Board with a British Columbia Flag.

HOSPITAL TO RECEIVE NEW ICU AND ELECTRICAL UPGRADE

At this months Kootenay East Region Hospital Board meeting we learned that the Provincial government was going to provide the board funding for a new ICU and a electrical upgrade.

The budget for this project is $20,000,000. RDEK Board is contributing 40% which will be up to $8,000,000. The good news is there will not be any increase in the Hospital Tax. The board has been asking for a new ICU for a few years and has been putting money away for this project.

TOWN HALL MEETING

The Town Hall Meeting will be held later this year where we will also be announcing the Area E Volunteer of the Year.

I hope everyone has a safe and happy month.

WASA LAKE LAND IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT (WLLID)

The Main Topic was Flooding

The 45th Annual General Meeting of the Wasa Lake Land Improvement District was held at the Wasa Community Hall on April 3rd. It was attended by over 60 people. The regular functions of an AGM were conducted, including financial reporting, appointing the auditor for the upcoming year, presentation of activity reports and the election of a trustee.

In his annual address, the chair spoke about the effects of the Flood of 2012 on the people and the community. In response to the flood the board had engaged McElhanney Associates to conduct a preliminary review of the flooding and outline some possible action that might be taken to alleviate future floods and the resulting damage to the community. Among the literature reviewed by John Armstrong, engineer and author of the McElhanney report was the Baker report, created by Mr. Ric Baker an engineer with the Water Management Branch in 1987. A letter recently received from Antione Beriault, the Deputy Superintendent of Dykes was referenced in the chair's address and suggested that further flood mitigation might be possible.

Copies of both the McElhanney and Baker Reports were made available for interested individuals to take home and read. The McElhanney report is also available on the website: wasalake.com, the Beriault letter will be uploaded once it is reviewed by the board at its next meeting and the

Submitted by Clay Tippett

Baker report is available at the library.

A report on the ongoing lake testing program was presented by Laurie Kay. Sharon Prinz presented updates on the new lake gauge and the proposed aquifer study.

Comments from the floor, almost exclusively on the flooding and the ongoing research, were made by Jim Abbott, former WLLID board chair and former Member of Parliament; Bill Wilson, former board chair; Stan Kneller, long-time resident; Bob Jamieson, Ta Ta Creek rancher and consultant and Suzanne Ashmore, former board chair. In general, support was expressed by most for ongoing research towards a solution to the Wasa's recurrent flooding. Messrs. Abbot, Wilson and Jamieson offered their knowledge and assistance on an ongoing basis, which is much appreciated.

With an enthusiastic introduction by Laurie Kay, Alex Jensen the cofounder of Arrow Installations, Power Line Contractors and Consultants was elected by acclamation to the single, three year trustee position made vacant by the expiration of the term of Wilma Croisdale. Wilma completed serving two consecutive terms and her contributions to the WLLID and community were gratefully acknowledged. We would also like to thank Sandy Kay for organizing the election as Returning Officer, Terry Marvel for helping her and Kathy Mikes-Boue for serving as recording secretary for the AGM.

RESPECTING THE LAW OF THE UNEXPECTED

Have you ever noticed that no matter what you plan, it never materializes exactly as you imagined? For example, you plan to leave for the grocery store and return home at a certain time, but for one reason or another, you are not back when you expected. Sometimes you expect people to act in a certain way and, strangely, they act in opposition to your expectation. Though it may seem easy to make things happen as you wish, no matter what you plan, the forces in action always seem to challenge those plans and expectations. When everything goes as you expect, you think it's normal, but when things don't fit your expectations, you find it frustrating. The reality is that your plans are often thwarted rather than obeyed by daily circumstances. The reason why so many people get frustrated with life is because they try to plan everything in their minds, but do not take into consideration that their own inner world doesn't correspond to the real world. In the real world, there are tremendous forces at play, which can thwart what people wish, expect or plan for.

Meditation and Teaching Sessions open to the public Fridays at 7pm

Call 250.422.9327 for more info

Since there are more things that you don't know than things that you do know, plan what you want, but always be ready for the unexpected. Remember that nothing in the totality of creation is static and even more importantly, nothing revolves around you and your plans. This is especially true for people, since people are in constant flux due to their lack of control over their emotions. In less than five minutes, your best friend or relative can have a change of mood and suddenly not be as open to you and your expectation as you'd hoped. The lack of respect of the law of the "unexpected" in daily life is the cause of so much misunderstanding and rancor between people and nations.

In yoga practice, working with the unexpected is called: "becoming lucid and adaptable".

To be lucid is to remember that due to the numerous forces in action at any given time in the world, there is a big difference between what one wants and what actually happens. For example, you may crave chocolate, but it just so happens that there is none left in the cupboard to satiate your craving.

To be adaptable is to remember that you must accept all situations, as they could not be otherwise, and from this acceptance, you can take the wisest possible action. For example, you may despise that someone spoke harshly to you, but they did, and being upset is not going to change that. In any circumstance, it is always better to tell yourself that what happened cannot be changed and that you must act according to the reality of it rather than to what you wanted or expected. Do not oppose what is to what you think should be; be one with what is so that you can act efficiently.

Respect the law of the unexpected with lucidity and adaptability, and you will experience a constant increase of happiness and joy in your heart. Try following this advice and you will be amazed by its power to invoke freedom in your life!

With love and blessing to all of you!
Warmly yours in the Divine.

2012 - 2013 WASA LIONS COLUMBIA BASIN TRUST COMMUNITY INITIATIVE PROGRAM FUNDS STILL AVAILABLE

There is still an opportunity for eligible Area E (Wasa, Ta Ta Creek, Skookumchuck, Meadowbrook, parts of Wycliffe and St Mary Valley) residents to apply for funding to assist with their involvement in the following:

1. Adult and Youth Educational activities, including attendance at university, college, trades courses and certificate upgrading at recognized institutions.

Pursuing something new or updating with a self interest course: i.e. photography, environmental issues, energy conservation, health issues, recreation, first aid, art, music, computer technology, orienteering, gardening or one of those do it yourself workshops. The College of the Rockies offers many interesting short courses.

If you have participated in any of the above since June 1st, 2012 or plan to do so before May 31, 2013 you can apply.

2. Some funding may also be available to assist Area E youth and children to participate in organized activities and sports who may not otherwise have the opportunity to do so.

Hopefully we will be able to organize swimming lessons again. They were cancelled last year due to the high water at Wasa. We also need a resident willing to organize the Red Cross Swim Classes.

3. As in previous years funds have been approved for several Area E facilities, organizations and projects.

The application form will include evidence of registration and acceptance to an approved institution and completion of the Area E eligibility criteria. All applications will be read and successful applicants notified.

Applications and or information are available through:

News from the Pews

By Pastor Gary Semenyyna

Happy Mother's Day.

What did your mother teach you?

Hear what one, anonymous son has written about what his mother taught him. My Mother taught me LOGIC... "If you fall off that swing and break your neck, you can't go to the store with me," as well as, "Because I said so, that's why!" My Mother taught me MEDICINE..."If you don't stop crossing your eyes, they're going to freeze that way." My Mother taught about RELIGION ... "You better pray that comes out of the carpet!" My Mother taught me TO MEET A CHALLENGE... "What were you thinking? Answer me when I talk to you... Don't talk back to me!"

My Mother taught me HUMOR... "When that lawn mower cuts off your toes, don't come running to me." My Mother taught me HOW TO BE A CONTORTIONIST... "Will you look at that dirt on the back of your neck." My mother taught me about GENETICS... "You are just like your father!" My mother taught me about MY ROOTS... "Do you think you were born in a barn?" My mother taught me about the WISDOM of AGE... "When you get to be my age, you will understand," or, "I will explain it all when you get older."

My mother taught me about the CIRCLE OF LIFE... "I brought you into this world and I can take you out!" My mother taught me about ANTICIPATION... "Just wait until your father gets home." My mother taught me about RECEIVING..."You are going to get it when I get you home." And the all-time favorite thing my mother taught me - JUSTICE "One day you will have kids, and I hope they turn out just like you!"

Yes, our mothers have taught us much... most likely more than what we have given them credit for. If your mother is still alive, take time this week to show some love and appreciation towards her for all that she has not only done for you but also taught you. I believe that God has given us mothers for a purpose, and we are better today as a person because of what our mother has taught us.

If any of you have spiritual questions or would like a visit please contact me at 250 422-3344.

WASA COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Hours: Tues. 11 am - 1 pm and Wed. 6:30 pm - 8 pm

SUBMITTED BY IDA CALE

 May is mystery month as we ponder the 'who, what, why, when and where' questions posed by the natural world as it moves through its spring awakening. Who is digging up those wild onion bulbs? What is that bird with the red tail feathers? When do I pick mullein leaves for brewing tea? Why are crocus flowers fuzzy? Where do I find some answers? Between the covers of a book at the Wasa Library of course!

The library has a nice little collection of field guides, children's stories and beautiful photo books of information to help you explore and discover the wonders of the natural world including: Rocks and Minerals by J. Arem; Wild Flowers in the Rockies by G. Hardy; Field Guide to Trees and Shrubs by Peterson; Harper & Row's Complete Field Guide to North American Wildlife; Stalking the Healthful Herbs by Gibbons and for the younger crowd look for fun stories like: Effie the Ant, Ten Flashing Fireflies, Extremely Weird Insects, Are you a Bee? There are also a number of 'coffee table' style volumes of wildlife photographs along with interesting information about their habits and habitat.

A lot of you have been exploring your gardens creating the right planning mix to produce not only epicurean edibles but colourful and scented bouquets of blooms. To aid in this year's adventure, why not visit the library and peruse our collection of magazines like Gardens West and Canadian Gardening. You are welcome to borrow the magazines or add them to your own library with a purchase by donation.

What did I learn from our library books? Odorous comes to mind when I think of skunks digging onions – they some how go together. Both the upper and under sides of the tail feathers of a red-tailed hawk is a ruddy red while a Northern flicker only has the orangey red colour on the under side of its tail and wings. Right now is a good time to pick the leaves from the first year mullein plants which are smaller. Use them fresh or dry for winter use when you can add dried rose hips and petals to brew a tea soothing to the throat and heart. I read a native legend about a boy who went on his journey quest in the foothills of the Rockies where his spirit remains in the form of the anemone or crocus. The purple of its petals reflect the colour of the mountains, its yellow center, the warmth of the spring sun and the fine woolly hair on its leaves is a blanket of warmth against the cool winds off the mountains. Find your answers and more as you explore the wondrous world of knowledge at the Wasa Library!

Note: The library will be closed on Tuesday May 14 because of the provincial election.

WASA RECREATION SOCIETY

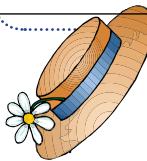

Submitted by Karen Markus

The Wasa Recreation Society Annual General Meeting will be held at our regular meeting on Tuesday, May 28th at 7:00 pm. We will be seeking the position of Vice-President. Sandy Kay is stepping down after many, many, many years of contributing to the community hall and its activities. Sandy has organized, prepared and taken charge of many activities and hall requirements. As Sandy was also the booking agent for the community hall we will be also looking to seek a replacement for that position. Thanks Sandy, a well deserved retirement from this volunteer job. It is very important to fill these positions as they become vacant. If we are unable to fill these positions when they become vacant, as more will, and we are unable to manage the community hall as a volunteer organization it will become the responsibility of the Regional District of the East Kootenay, which in turn, each of us will be taxed for the continued management of this facility or its possible closure.

We would like to thank the members of the community that have come to our rescue with the equipment failures we have had in the past couple of months. Mike Reimer and Laurie Kay; Jim Hill and JC McPhee, and Scott Clubley. Each of them used their expertise to repair, fix and install equipment failures. Thanks guys.

The following volunteers also came forward at a minutes notice to handle the February Bingo. Thanks to Marnie Henne, Jacquie Perrault, Lorraine Colton, Crystal Billey, Jane Gendron. A special thank you to Sarah Sheilds and Sharon Demoine for taking on the bingo for two months until we found a replacement for Orlena. Great job done by all.

Seniors' Happy Gang

By Ruth Dovell

The March meeting was well attended. We shared a pot luck and this was followed by a crokinole tournament. Hidden score winners were Jean, Ruth, Brenda and Warren. The 50/50 was won by Warren. Happy Birthday was sung to Grace R., Dale T. and Brenda S.

The April luncheon at the Heritage Inn was attended by twelve members and thoroughly enjoyed by all. It was decided to cancel the May meeting as many will be away. The June 17th meeting is to be held at Bolko and Brenda's home in Skookumchuk. There will be a noon lunch with the hamburgers provided. Bring salads and desserts. A Bocci game will follow the lunch.

We need new members. Please phone Brenda at 250.422.3548 if you are interested. All carpet bowling has been cancelled until fall due to upcoming surgeries on a couple of our members.

Marnie Henne and Jane Gendron will take over the Bingo Coordinator job from Orlena Campbell who retired from many years as the Coordinator. We are very appreciative to have volunteers step forward for these jobs. The bingo brings in an average of $600.00 each month for the operation of the community hall. Susan Manahan and Lorraine Colton continue to manage the concession for each bingo. Thanks ladies, your volunteer hours are very much appreciated. If you wish to donate baking or volunteer an evening to help with the bingo, please call Jane Gendron (bingo - floorwalking, caller) or Susan Manahan (concession – baking or evening work).

The Armchair Traveler has made an $800 donation to the community hall from their silver collection at the door for all their Armchair Traveler sessions this winter. Thanks to the team that brought these opportunities to us to travel without leaving Wasa. We look forward to next year's travels.

The Community Hall is very busy in the fall, winter and spring with community events of our user groups. If you wish to volunteer or become involved with this community venue please plan to attend one of our monthly meetings held the last Tuesday of each month at the Community Hall, 7:00 pm. Hope to see some new faces.

Reminder: BC Election will take place May 14 in the Library of the Community Hall. The Library will be closed to regular library users on that day. Bingo will continue as usual.

PET'S PLACE

HISTORY BYTES

BY NAOMI MILLER

THE PILOT POINT STORY

Pilot Point on Kootenay Lake recorded its first settlers in 1890. Joseph Davies and William Sayward pre-empted 300 acres and built a sawmill to provide lumber for nearby mining communities and greenhorn ranchers. The Bluebell Mine, just a few miles north, needed a smelter. Investor Dr. Wilbur Hendryx bought a block on the west side and commenced construction. When the smelter became operational in March 1895 the community of Pilot Bay was home to 300 people. There were two hotels, stores, boarding houses, and a school with an unwanted red light district assembled in houseboats offshore. (Brothel owners were barred from purchasing lots to build here.)

The smelter operated only 18 months with very limited recovery of metals from the complex Bluebell ore. In September 1896 Hendryx shut the smelter down, retaining only the night watchman. Most residents packed up and left.

The sawmill operated until 1903. Lake steamers needing cordwood to fire their boilers came to this sawmill till 1899 when they were able to switch to coal. One such sternwheeler, THE AINSWORTH, had previously sunk in shallow water off Kaslo, was refloated and assigned for shorter runs south of Pilot Bay, sometimes south to Bonners Ferry. On November 29th the AINSWORTH limped to Nelson and back. The crew got in a fight at Pilot Bay so the Captain sailed without his regular fireman, attempting to continue to Bonners Ferry. There was a big storm blowing. The ship swamped and tipped. Two lifeboats were launched but only one made it to shore. Six crew and three passengers were lost. THE AINSWORTH has been found at the depth of 365 feet and has been marked by underwater archaeologists.

In 1904 the Dominion Government recognized the need for navigation aids in this era before highways. D.C. McGregor of Kaslo and Oscar Burden of Crawford Bay got the $800 contract to build a lighthouse to specs used on the Great Lakes. They hired locals to erect a good looking, tapered, square 35 foot tower with a viewing platform and glass on three sides. Initially lit with kerosene, then acetylene, its light could be seen by boaters for twenty miles north, south and in the west arm. This old tower is a great place to visit. By walking a well marked trail from near the smelter.

In 1905 a new company bought the Bluebell mine and the smelter. It was hoped to partially refine the ore and then ship it to Frank, Alberta for finishing in a new smelter there. Many Pilot Bay residents returned, including Joe Blanchard who had sold his holdings in Spokane to build and run the three story Pilot Bay Hotel. The smelter shut down again in 1906 and residents packed up and left again.

Some recovery of untreated ore was undertaken for short periods during the summers of 1948, 1952, and 1978-80 presumably by sending the untouched or partially treated ore to the smelter in Trail. The investors made at least expenses for their efforts.

Speculators considered clear cutting timber on and near Pilot Point. Locals protested and formed a group to educate urban individuals on the joy of Outdoors Recreation and Conservation. Guiding Hands Recreational Society opened a tipi camp in 1988 on private, hidden property donated by Alice Bruce. Early years of this venture were funded by the late Peter Duryea but latterly it is self supporting with five people on staff during the summer. Most of the Davies and Sayward's original 300 acres is now a Provincial Park. Friends of BC Parks volunteer to maintain the old lighthouse. A decent road was built from the Kootenay Bay Ferry to the old chimneys so gradually waterfront homes have appeared. Riders on the Kootenay Lake Ferry see modern buildings and expensive small boats as well as the old smelter chimney and historic lighthouse when enjoying the crossing to or from Balfour.

What a Riot we had with the Funniest Comedian "Camilla Jones"

Thank you! to all you amazing gals
Who came to Comedy night at the hall,
We sure did have a lot of good laughs
I know I sure had a ball.

The kitchen crew was something else
You are a priceless bunch,
The way you tackled everything,
And laid out a delicious lunch.

And to Anne at Trends and Treasures,
We thank you for your awesome donations!
The prizes were lovely and fun,
But the play dough got standing ovation.

Who knew that Wasa had singers,
In case you didn't get a chance at that.
For the rest of you crazy swingers,
We'll get our Karaoke "Hieke" to come back.

I can't say enough thank yous
To all of you, my friends,
I hope you had the best of time
And you'll come back again.

A great Big Thank you to Camilla, Heike,
Rosemary, Patsy, Dana, LaRae, Sandy and Jean.
And my two amazing daughters Sara and Claire,
You are the best! The greatest team!
Love you all my friends, Carol Canning

Hints From Vi

By Vi Cockell

Hello Readers

1. Amazing Grout Cleaner: 1 cup water, 1/2 cup baking soda, 1/3 cup ammonia, 1/4 cup vinegar and mix well. Pour into spray bottle and spray onto grout, scrub and wipe off.
2. To make a quick hanging basket find an old colander, fill with moss and planter mix. Add your choice of flowers.
3. Wood ticks are out. If you have get one stuck on you just take a cotton ball and soak it in liquid soap. Place the cotton ball onto the wood tick and make sure it's covering the tick. Leave for 15 to 20 seconds. Remove the cotton ball. The tick will come out stuck to the cotton ball.
4. Before planting any flowers mix this up and try this "Sweet Snack for Spectacular Flowers". In an old bucket mix together: 1 cup sugar, 3 cups bone meal, 1 cup Epson salts. Sprinkle a pinch of this sweet snack into the bottom of each hole as you are planting. This will provide the flowers with something nutritious to munch on as they get up and grow.
5. Breakfast cereal makes replanting a snap! Add a hand full or two of dry Oatmeal to the soil mix when replanting. The Oatmeal provides many essential nutrients and gives the plant a great start.
